I. INTRODUCTION

The purpose of this information guide is to help explain what to expect on the upcoming structured interview (or “test”) for the Jefferson County Property Litigation Administrator position. It will also give you information on how to prepare for the test. This booklet contains information about the interview process, including:

- Introduction
- Interview Description and an Example Question
- Content Measured by the Structured Interview
- Preparing for the Interview
- Additional Information for Taking the Interview
- Contact Information

You were determined to be minimally qualified for this job by the Personnel Board of Jefferson County, and your name was placed on a list and shared with us here in the Human Resources Department of Jefferson County Commission. This step in the process was considered the primary selection process.

Now you will be participating in the secondary selection process which is a recorded structured interview. You must take the structured interview in order to be considered for this position. Please remember that the material in this booklet is designed to help prepare you for the test. You will not need the material in this booklet at the time you actually take the test. Therefore, you will not be allowed to carry this booklet into the interview session.

II. TEST DESCRIPTION

The upcoming test for Property Litigation Administrator consists of a structured interview. There will be approximately 10 scenarios and associated focusing questions on the interview. The scenarios will be about issues, situations, responsibilities, activities, incidents, etc., which a new Property Litigation Administrator may have to address. You will have time beforehand to prepare your response to some or all parts of the interview. After the preparation period is over, you will be taken to a testing room to begin your interview session. The scenarios and focusing questions will be narrated. You will respond orally to each scenario and all focusing questions. Your response will be recorded. You will have a specified number of minutes to respond to each question. If you complete your response before the allotted time has elapsed you must wait until the time expires and a new scenario is presented.

On the day of the test, you will be provided with a test preparation guide that contains some or all of the actual scenarios and focusing questions you will respond to during the interview. You will have a specified number of minutes to read through the scenario and focusing questions and prepare your responses. The preparation period includes any time you spend reading the interview instructions.

While you are reviewing the scenarios and associated focusing questions, you may make notes for your use during the interview. Raters will only be evaluating you on what you say during the actual interview session. They will not evaluate what you have written down in your notes. Only your verbal responses will be scored.

When it is time for your interview to start, you will be escorted to a testing room. You will be the only candidate in the testing room. When the interview starts, you will see information on screen and hear the same information read by a narrator.

The narrator will present each scenario, or question, verbally. After each scenario, the narrator will present a set of focusing questions. The focusing questions will also be presented in writing either on a sheet of paper or on a video monitor. To complete the test, you must verbally respond to each scenario and its associated focusing questions. You may use your notes when providing your response; however, your notes will not be evaluated. Only your verbal response will be assessed.

After each scenario and its associated focusing questions have been presented, you will hear the instruction, “your response period begins now.” The time remaining to answer the question will be shown on a video monitor or on a timer. You will then have a specified number of minutes to respond to each scenario and associated focusing questions. At the end of each pre-specified time period, you will hear the command “STOP! Your time is up.” Evaluators will ignore any information you provide after the command to stop has been issued. You will not be able to use time from a subsequent scenario to complete a response to an earlier scenario.

Your responses will be recorded. It is important that any audio or video equipment remain in place; therefore, do not touch any of the equipment at any time. You could be disqualified from the interview process for tampering with any of the equipment. If there is a problem with the equipment, please raise your hand and keep it raised until a test monitor enters your room. You are responsible for making sure you speak loudly and clearly enough to be understood by the evaluators reviewing your recording. A normal conversational tone as used in a meeting setting is sufficient.

Remember, there will be approximately 10 scenarios and associated focusing questions. Each scenario and focusing question will be read aloud prior to your response time beginning. In your response, be sure to answer all of the focusing questions presented. Keep in mind the following things when responding:

- More detail is better than less detail. That is, more details which show one's knowledge, skills and abilities relevant to the question may improve a candidate's evaluation
- The evaluators will not “read in” to what you say
- Your responses will be evaluated against a defined set of performance standards
- You should answer all focusing questions related to each scenario
- Be sure to talk about what you would do and why

Sample Question

The following question is presented as an example of the form or type of scenarios with which you will be presented. Please note that the content, or subject matter, of the actual interview scenarios will vary and may or may not be similar to that of the questions presented below. The scenarios to which you will respond during the interview will be related to the job for which you are applying.

Example

The department that you work in recently purchased some new equipment. Today, you are able to use the new equipment for the first time. You have been told that the new equipment is similar to what you have had previously. While you are using the new equipment, it stops working and shows an error message that you have never seen before.

Focusing Question(s)

What are the next steps that you would take to determine the meaning of the error message and continue with your work?

B. General information on “What to do during the test”:

- 1) Some people are nervous when they take tests. Up to a point, there is nothing wrong with that. Whenever you are going to do something important, it is good to feel a bit nervous. It is nature's way of getting you warmed up and ready, like an actress or actor about to go out on stage for a performance.
- 2) However, it is not good to be so nervous that all you can think about is how nervous you are. You need to keep your mind on the test questions, and not on your feelings. To improve your ability to do that, you will find useful ideas in this booklet on how to prepare for the test and what to expect.
The more prepared you are, the more comfortable and less nervous you will feel during the test.
- 3) Several things that you can do that will make you feel more comfortable taking the structured interview including: following the guidelines presented in this booklet on what to expect on the test and how to prepare for the test; becoming familiar with what the structured interview process will be like (including reading the sample question); and, understanding the test instructions.

- 4) You must not leave the room in which you are taking the interview unless you are told that you may do so. Once the test begins, you must remain in your room. There will be Test Monitors nearby at all times. They will be available to assist you if you have any problems.
- 5) You will be given the opportunity to use the restroom, stand, and stretch throughout the time you are at the testing location. You should use these opportunities as necessary. Once the test begins, you will not be able to stop the process to use the rest room.
- 6) You are not to open any test material or instructions or begin working on the test until you are instructed to do so.
- 7) During the preparation and testing period, you are not to use any materials other than what has been provided during the testing session.
- 8) Candidates making any disturbances or caught cheating will be disqualified from the test.
- 9) Test Monitors will not interpret test questions for you. However, they can assist you with any problems, such as mechanical difficulties or equipment breakdowns.
- 10) There will be an audio recorder in the room in which you take the test. The audio recorder will be used to record your spoken responses to the test.
- 11) You should speak in a normal speaking voice when you are required to give spoken responses to questions. It is not necessary to shout, but do not talk in a whisper either. Simply speak in a normal voice.
- 12) On the day of the test, you will be provided with a test preparation guide to help you prepare to respond to the structured interview questions.

C. Effective Note Taking

The structured interview asks about issues, situations, responsibilities, activities, incidents, etc. which a newly hired Property Litigation Administrator may have to address. On the day of the test, you will be given a chance to look over the questions that you will be asked on the test before you start the interview. You will have a chance to think about your answers for the test, and you should take notes to help guide your responses. Good notes contain the essential or important details. The notes do not need to be written in complete sentences. You are the only one who needs to be able to read and understand your notes. Your notes will not be graded. Your notes will be collected at the end of the interview.

Why Take Notes?

There are several good reasons to take notes during the preparation phase of the test process.

- In order to take notes, you are forced to carefully consider the information being given.
- Taking notes can help you remember. Notes you take in your own words are easier to understand and remember.
